CATHERINE M. WRIGHT
THE LETTERS OF Sgt. ROBERT W. PARKER

The January speaker is Catherine M. Wright. Ms. Wright was born in Kansas City, Missouri, and grew up there and in Norfolk, Virginia. She is the editor of Lee's Last Casualty: The Life and Letters of Sgt. Robert W. Parker, Second Virginia Cavalry (University of Tennessee Press, 2008) and is a contributing historian to the online Encyclopedia of Virginia. She was formerly the curator at the Stonewall Jackson House in Lexington, VA, and is currently the curator at The Museum of the Confederacy in Richmond. The letters of Sgt. Robert W. Parker provide a window into the daily life of an enlisted cavalryman, as well as highlight the unique story of the soldier believed to be the last man killed in action in the Army of Northern Virginia. In many ways, Parker was representative of the average Confederate soldier: a modest farmer in the antebellum years, his patriotic fervor spurred him at the beginning of the war to enlist in the Confederate cavalry. His letters reveal how home front and battlefield were closely intertwined, and the importance of correspondence in sustaining that connection and the will to fight. The role of the cavalry and Parker's tragic death are also highlighted in the program.

We will meet in the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre located at 515 Scotland St. in Williamsburg at 7 PM.

The December meeting featured two speakers: Jack Tuttle, Williamsburg City Manager, on the Riverside Hospital development and the Williamsburg battlefield. The second speaker was our roundtable member Teresina Toepke presenting "Civil War Christmas: In the Field and on the Home Front."

Dr. Lisa Heuvel & Sean Heuval

"The Old College Goes to War: Exploring William & Mary's role in the American Civil War".

The May speakers are Dr. Lisa L. Heuvel and her son Sean Heuval. They will present "The Old College Goes to War: Exploring William & Mary's role in the American Civil War". When most people think of the College of William and Mary, they usually associate it with the colonial era. However, the College had an equally rich and eventful history during the American Civil War. This presentation will explore key Civil War-era events on the William and Mary campus, as well as the wartime contributions of its students, faculty, and alumni.

Lisa L. Heuvel is a museum administrator, teacher, and educational consultant who specializes in higher education history and Native American Studies. She has extensive work experience with several public history institutions, including the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

Sean M. Heuvel is a faculty member with the Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University, where he specializes in military leadership, the American Revolution, and the Civil War. His previous publications include Life After J.E.B. Stuart: The Memoirs of His Granddaughter, Marrow Stuart Smith.

We will meet in the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre located at 515 Scotland St. in Williamsburg on May 22nd at 7 PM.

April Program: The April speaker was Michael Moore who discussed the Peninsula Campaign. Michael Moore is the curator and registrar for Lee Hall Mansion and Endview Plantation in Newport News. Waite Rawls III

President, CEO, Museum of the Confederacy

"Burying the Dead, But Not the Past"

"Immediately after the Civil War ended, ladies across Virginia banded together into 'Memorial Associations' and went to work. In the next two decades, they found and reburied 72,500 Confederate soldiers, they sowed the seeds for what became Memorial Day, they founded the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Museum of the Confederacy, and they erected statues all across the state. Waite Rawls will talk about these ladies and their accomplishments, and he will talk about how they helped to shape our modern memory of the Confederacy.

A native of Franklin Virginia he joined the Franklin CWRT at age 9. He has a BA from Virginia Military Institute and MBA and JD from University of Virginia. After 30 years as an investment banker in New York and Chicago he joined Museum of the Confederacy as Executive Director in 2004 and was elected President and CEO in 2006.

"We will meet in the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre located at 515 Scotland St. in Williamsburg on September 25th at 7 PM.
